The dependency graph shows that app.py script/module is dependent on flask and psycopg2. These are the primary dependencies. The dependency graph also shows the nature of the flask framework showing the various flask components that handle requests and templates. It can also be seen that app.py depends on psycopg2.sql for database connectivity and to compose sql queries. Overall, the graph shows that app.py controls the process flow.